

Jason L. Eisele
27 September, 2012

To whom it may concern:

I have spent many years in school over the course of my life. There have been a small handful of professors that have truly made a lasting and memorable impact upon me, and Dr. Christopher Rollston is one of those professors for me. During my tenure as a student at Emmanuel School of Religion (now Emmanuel Christian Seminary) I had the pleasure of knowing and studying under Dr. Rollston. In addition to being an unquestionably learned man with considerable knowledge on the subject matter he taught, Dr. Rollston always impressed me as a genuinely good human being. I remember his classes as challenging, and they were very helpful in encouraging me to grow spiritually as well as academically. Dr. Rollston always impressed me as not only an impressive academic figure, but a great human being that sincerely strove to live to the best of his ability in accordance with the teachings of Christ, and I never questioned that he genuinely cared about the well-being of students and other people throughout the world. His passion for the subject matter he taught and his concern for his fellow human beings made a lasting impression upon me.

My experience with the professors and students at Emmanuel, including Dr. Rollston, was of the utmost importance in fostering my growth as a young Christian. It is my belief that Dr. Rollston deserves the highest commendations for the years of tireless effort that he has invested in America's future spiritual leaders, and for his willingness to share the vast store of knowledge and wisdom that he has to offer.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in cursive script that reads "Jason L. Eisele".

Jason L. Eisele